
NEBOSH Health & Safety for Management for Construction

Overview:

The NC1 is a unit comprising of 2-weeks formal tuition and a Scenario Based Assessment (SBE).

The Health and Safety Management for Construction qualification (NC) is aimed at anyone (managers, supervisors, and workers) in the construction sector. It is ideal for anyone who needs a broad understanding of construction health and safety issues to be able to manage day-to-day risks effectively.

Many people take this qualification as a first step in a career in construction health and safety. It gives a valuable overview and is a sound basis for further professional study.

There are no entry requirements for this qualification.

The Programme:

On this program you will learn about:

Main legal requirements relating to health and safety in UK construction work; identification and control of construction workplace hazards and the practical application of this knowledge

Subject Areas:

Construction law and management
Construction activity hazards and control
Movement of people and vehicles
Manual and mechanical handling
Work equipment
Fire, electrical, chemical, and biological hazards
Physical and psychological health hazards and control
Working at height
Excavation work
Demolition hazards and control

This course will require an element of private study.

Training notes:

All attendees will get a comprehensive reference manual covering, in depth, all the subjects included in the training program.

Assessment:

The aim of this assessment is for you to practically apply your knowledge and understanding gained from your studies of the NC syllabus. To do this, you will complete a Scenario Based Assessment (SBA) based on a fictional workplace setting.
